TAKES SPITE ON STREET MACHINE

Tom Worthington is Angered When Man Pushes Him in Gutter For Swearing.

IS FINED $1 AND COSTS TODAY

Strikes Glass Over Dial on Weighing Machine and is Gory After Battle.

Tom Worthington, a common character about the streets, was pushed into a puddle of water in the gutter yesterday afternoon at the corner of Second and Main streets by an enraged pedestrian, who took offense at what Tom said. Tom dared not hit the portly man, so he just took his spite out on the weighing machine in front of the Wolcott drug store. Drawing his arm back, Worthington "biffed" the glass covering the dial on the weighing machine and smashed it into innumerable pieces. He gained nothing, for his hands and face were bleeding, after the operation, as if he had been through a cyclone.

Worthington wandered about the streets, swearing profusely until he was finally taken in charge by Policeman Wolters and placed in jail. He became so obnoxious that the police had to take him off the streets. He faced Mayor Black in police court this morning and pleaded guilty to a charge of drunkenness. He was fined one dollar and costs and sent back to jail, when he failed to get someone to stay the fine for him.

Dennis O'Neil, the new prosecutor, presided for the first time this morning, the first day of his term. Worthington pleaded with the mayor, telling him, with tears in his eyes, that he would lose his job at the Madden restaurant if he was placed in jail. The mayor told him that they had been lenient with him too often and that he must suffer the penalty for getting drunk.

After Worthington was thrown into the gutter he wandered about the streets yesterday afternoon, swearing at the top of his voice. He entered the Betker pool room, but the man in charge did not see fit to throw him out, as he was still gory from the encounter with the weighing machine. Worthington remained until he saw fit to leave.

NAMES NEW PUBLICATIONS

Mrs. May W. Donnan Presents Holiday Books For Reading.

Mrs. May W. Donnan's study class met Saturday afternoon. It was Mrs. Donnan's purpose at this meeting to present some of the important holiday publications, and the books mentioned are charming volumes for those who would have their desultory reading worth while. Especially significant is Stephen Phillip's "The New Inferno," and Maurice Maeterlinck's "Mary Magdalene." Mrs. Donnan praises with generosity and fearlessness that which she believes to be good, and her estimates though critical are bright and lively and full of interesting suggestions and entertaining comment.

STATED CONVOCATION.

SUDDENLY STRICKEN BLIND

Lewisville Resident Loses Eyesight While in Knightstown.

Caleb Dixon, a well known resident of Lewisville, was suddenly stricken blind while in Knightstown. No explanation of the case is given. Mr. Dixon was at the Home Hospital in New Castle a few months ago, where he underwent a surgical operation for the cure of hernia, and since then had been in better physical health than for years previous.

WELL KNOWN AGED RESIDENT DEAD

Henry O'Neil, 73 Years Old, Expired Saturday Night After Short Illness.

BURIAL TOMORROW MORNING

Henry O'Neil, a well known resident of this city, died Saturday night at seven-thirty o'clock, at his home in East Seventh street. Mr. O'Neil's death was very sudden, being taken to his bed on Friday morning with double pneumonia.

Mr. O'Neil was seventy-three years old, and was born in Ireland. He had lived in Rush county for over fifty years. He is survived by six children, Mrs. William Fitzgerald, Mrs. Sylvester Kirkpatrick, Michael, John and Will of this city, and Mrs. James DeOrmond of Terre Haute.

The funeral services will be held tomorrow morning at nine o'clock at the Catholic church, conducted by the Rev. W. J. Cronin.

MORTGAGE MAY MEAN EXTENSION

Document, Recorded by I. & C. Traction Company in Indianapolis, Covered 40 Printed Pages.

TO FINISH LINES WITH MONEY

It is a significant fact that a mortgage on the Indianapolis and Cincinnati Traction company was recorded in the Marion county recorder's office Saturday afternoon, the money to be used to buy equipment and to complete the line. It is very evident that the I. & C. contemplates extending the line, but in what direction or over what route is not known. Traction officials were all out of the city today so that nothing official could be learned. Out of five mortgages filed, the one filed by the traction company was by far the largest. It was given to the Central Trust Company of New York and Francis E. Hyde of New York, trustees. It covered forty printed pages. The total fees paid for recording the instruments was $208.

TO DEVOTE WEEK TO INSTITUTES

Farmers Lay Aside Work to Reap Benefit to be Derived From Instructive Programs.

OPENS AT CARTHAGE TUESDAY

Last Two Days' Sessions Will be Held in Court House Assembly Room.

The first week in January arrived this morning and is notable to farmers over the county by reason of the fact that the last five days will be devoted to institutes in various towns. Many farmers have already lain aside their work and are preparing to attend every one of the sessions. They all promise to be entertaining as well as instructive, as attractive programs have been prepared for each day.

The last two days of the week, next Friday and Saturday, the closing sessions of the week's institute will be held here in the court house assembly room. The last day will be the ladies' session and the program at that time will be wholly of interest to them. In the afternoon especially attractive musical numbers will be given.

On Thursday, the session which is expected to prove the most attractive to farmers will be held at Manilla. Besides the program a long list of premiums have been offered by Manilla citizens and merchants for the best quality of many farm products.

Wednesday the session will be held at Falmouth, where a long and interesting program will be given. Dinner will be furnished by the Ladies' Aid Society of the Fairview Christian church. The program follows:

Morning Session—10 o'clock.
Invocation.
Economic Pig Feeding—Joe P. Prigg.
Discussion.
Music.
Paper—Mrs. Otto Golden.
Appointment of Committees.
Afternoon Session—1:00 o'clock.
Agricultural Education—Joe P. Prigg.
Discussion.
Music.
Paper—Mrs. Alta Wikoff.
Remarks.

The week's institute will be opened at Carthage tomorrow. The program follows:

Morning Session.
Baby Beef and Its Advantages—Joe P. Prigg.
Discussion.
Music.
Silo and Silage—Maurice Douglas.
Appointment of Committees.
Afternoon Session—1:00 o'clock.
Maintenance of Soil Fertility—Joe P. Prigg.
Discussion.
Music.
More Corn to the Acre—Maurice Douglas.

TOOK OFFICE TODAY.

Will McBride, the newly elected county treasurer, took his office today. As is the usual custom, apples and cigars were passed out by Mr. McBride.

EASTERN STAR MEETING.

Martha Poe Chapter No. 143 O. E. S. will have their regular meeting tomorrow night, at which time the installation of officers will take place. A good attendance is desired.

SEARCH ENDS IN QUIET ARREST

Elzra Hall of Manilla, Wanted For Assault and Battery For 3 Years, is Taken.

BOND FIXED AT FIFTY DOLLARS

Was Victim of Christmas Booze and Christmas Fight, Slashing Henderson With Knife.

After a continued search and some times a chase of almost three years, Elzra Hall of Manilla was arrested here by Sheriff Clata Bebout and placed in jail on two charges of assault and battery, preferred about three years ago. Hall's bond was placed at fifty dollars, but he is still in jail and has so far been unable to find anyone to go on it for him.

Hall was the victim of Christmas booze and a Christmas fight three years ago in the town of Manilla. He was intoxicated and had a slight altercation with John Henderson, another resident of that town. When the battle became too hot for Hall, he drew a pocket knife and slashed Henderson considerably, but not injuring him to any great extent.

By the time the affidavit had been filed, Hall was no longer in Manilla nor has the sheriff been able to locate him since that time until today. It was reported at one time that he was in his home town, but an attempt to arrest him failed, while Will King was sheriff. He was not acquainted with the man and could not identify him.

When Sheriff Clata Bebout came into office, he heard that Hall was in Madison county, near Anderson. He could not learn his exact residence so he waited for the time when Hall would return to his own fireside. He later heard that Hall was working near Richmond.

The sheriff was standing on the street talking to a friend when he saw Hall approaching. Mr. Bebout had his back turned so that Hall could not see him. It happened that the man to whom the sheriff was talking, was well acquainted with Hall. When Hall approached and slapped his old friend on the back Sheriff Bebout quietly told him that he was under arrest.

EXHIBIT PRODUCTS OF WESTERN STATES

School Children Are Dismissed Early to See Special Car at the Pennsylvania Station.

TO GIVE A LECTURE TONIGHT

The school children from several rooms in the city schools were allowed to go early today to witness the exhibit made at the Pennsylvania depot of the products of the great States of Oregon and Montana. The exhibit is in charge of the Great Northern Railway to advertise the two States. The products are arranged in artistic array all over the car and are placed to such an advantage that their appearance gives a very pleasing effect. Fruits of all kinds and descriptions as well as many kinds of grains that are raised there are shown to a great advantage. A free stereopticon lecture on the two States will be given in the court house this evening at seven-thirty o'clock.

GIVEN NO MENTION HERE

Local Ministers Made No Appeal For County Option Law.

In response to the appeal of the Anti-Saloon League, made through the Rev. E. S. Shumaker, State Superintendent, pastors in many pulpits throughout the State preached sermons protesting against the repeal of the present county option law. In some places petitions were presented in the churches for signatures, while in other cities the pastors ignored the request of the league. Rushville ministers did not mention the question yesterday, as in several of the churches the regular New Years sermon was delivered.

BOUGHT FARM AND THEN DISAPPEARED

Luther E. Lockridge, Believed to be Former Resident of Spiceland, is Wanted in Tennessee.

MADE CASH PAYMENT OF $300

Has anybody here seen Lockridge, Luther E. Lockridge, believed to have formerly lived in or about Spiceland, says the New Castle Courier.

He disappeared very mysteriously from McMinnville, Tenn., quite recently and certain parties in Tennessee would like to get into communication with him.

A letter addressed to the "clerk of the probate court" at Spiceland, Saturday reached County Clerk Burgess. It was written by Joseph Gessler, clerk of the Warren county, Tenn., court. In the letter Gessler asks for all information possible about Luther E. Lockridge. He bought a farm near McMinnville, making a cash payment of $300 on it. So far as is known the man has as completely disappeared as if the earth had swallowed him up. He, it is said, disappeared soon after paying the $300 down on his farm.

CHURCHES JOIN TO HONOR MINISTER

Union Services Held at Church Last Night, Complimentary to the Rev. R. W. Abberley.

WILL BECOME AN EVANGELIST

To honor the Rev. R. W. Abberley, the resigned pastor of the Main Street Christian church, who leaves soon to become an evangelist, all of the churches of the city were "dark" last night and all of the congregations joined in a union service at which the Rev. Mr. Abberley preached. As his closing effort, after a very profitable ministry in this city, he did himself proud in what is said to be one of the best sermons ever preached here.

The Rev. Mr. Abberley preached on the subject "When the Mists Clear Away" and made much of the topic. He took occasion to say that science and the Christian religion did not interfere, but that they are working to the same great end—the redemption of man. He said that there were many questions yet unexplained, but that they would be very plain when the judgment day came. The other ministers of the city attended and participated in the services. A solo by Prof. Whitelaw Spurrier was a feature of the musical program.

BELIEVED BOY WAS NOT GUILTY

Greenfield and Brooklyn People Discredit Story That Young Walsh Was Implicated in Robbery.

NOTHING NEW DEVELOPES

People in His Home City Felt That he Would be Able to Free Himself.

According to a dispatch from Brooklyn, Ind., where Lawrence E. Walsh of Greenfield, who was held here as a suspect in connection with the New Palestine bank robbery and later released, wholly cleared of the charge, the report that the young man was implicated was discredited. He was employed as a telegraph operator at the Vandalia station in Brooklyn until last Wednesday and he left to seek employment elsewhere on the following day.

According to the station agent, L. S. McNeff, Walsh's accounts always have been found correct and he was regarded as a model employee. It is not believed by his friends and former fellow employees at Brooklyn that he in any way is connected with the robbery, but that he is the victim of circumstances.

According to the Greenfield Reporter, Greenfield people generally, felt that the arrest of Lawrence E. Walsh at Rushville Friday night, was a mistake on the part of the officers, although they were acting upon what they considered sufficient information to hold him as a suspect in the New Palestine bank robbery of Thursday night.

Mr. Walsh is a son of Mr. and Mrs. David Walsh of this city and although he may have been considered on the wild order, he was not a criminal or inclined that way. He is a telegraph operator and has been employed at Brooklyn for three years.

FIRST REGULAR SESSION TODAY

County Commissioners Met, With New Member Present—Will McColgin Appointed Attorney.

VIEWERS NAMED FOR THE ROAD

John E. Harrison, the new commissioner from the southern district, who was elected on the Republican ticket last November, was broken in at the first meeting of the commissioners for the new year in the court house today. The commissioners organized and Thomas J. Humes was elected president of the board, he being the oldest member, by right of time served.

About noon today, Will C. McColgin of the law firm of Sexton and McColgin, was appointed county attorney for the ensuing year. John A. Tittsworth is the retiring county attorney. Several claims were allowed and the petition for the William Alsmann road in Posey township was accepted. Adolphus Cameron, the newly elected county surveyor, was named as engineer, and Frank F. Cross and Will Horton, both of Rushville township, were named viewers.

Indiana's Wood Supply

A Vital Question Which Must be Solved Sooner or Later

Before the last meeting of the Indiana Federation of Commercial clubs, an address prepared by Prof. Mason B. Thomas of Wabash university was delivered. This address relates to the work of reforestation in Indiana, and is well worth thinking about.

Prof. Thomas made the point that the Americans are the greatest users of wood per capita, of any nation in the world. The average person in the United States uses 260 cubic feet of wood. Germany uses only thirty-seven feet for each person, and France uses only twenty-five cubic feet.

We have said "use," yet the fact is that the wood those placed on the market and sold in some form or other a great deal is misused. Mr. Thomas says that from every acre of forest out over only a third is put on the market and the remaining two-thirds is wasted. We wish to add that of the third put on the market probably as much as a third is wasted or misused. Boxes to ship goods in are allowed to rot or burn. Houses are made in an inferior way and allowed often to decay for want of paint. In many other ways wood is wasted and misused, and the supply is constantly dwindling.

Mr. Thomas says: "Not only are we wasting our forests but the few that remains are growing but twelve cubic feet per year on each acre while the well regulated forests of Europe yield from forty-eight to sixty-five cubic feet and we could do as well. It is not surprising that the price of lumber has advanced in the last ten years more than twice as much as the average increase in all other commodities. It should make anyone think when a piece of cabinet work, that fifteen years ago cost the price of one day's labor, now costs the amount from six days' labor, due to the advance in the cost of white pine.

"It is for our own state, however, that I am to speak. Of the 18,993,046 acres originally in forest, but 1,227,141 now remain and but little of this has been unspoiled by the woodsman's ax. Up until 1880, when 4,335,161 acres remained, practically all the clearing had been in the interests of agriculture, but since that time the waste lands of the State have increased in about the same proportion as the forest area has decreased. We have passed the danger line and the revenue from timber now cut means a sacrifice in impoverished agricultural lands. In 1899 we ranked first in our production of hard wood, but we now rank ninth. Were we substituting agriculture for this and were no other factors to be considered little complaint could be made."

He then points to the commercial values of timber, and says that factories that use wood are removing from Indiana to States that have a larger supply of native timber. The wood manufacturers of Indiana are valued at $10,000,000 annually, but they are about to be lost unless the people of this State awake to the point of conserving the present supply of wood and increasing its production.

In closing he says: "What can you, as leaders in public and private life in Indiana, do to aid in solving this question that our state is now facing.

"1. By informing yourselves as to the real facts in the case and advocating only the sane and practical. By being the leaders of an intelligent public sentiment in forestry matters and in legislative affairs, by helping select for the legislature only men who are willing to advocate the legislation necessary to bring about reforms. It is possible even in a republic to secure sufficient legislation

ROCHESTER, N. Y.

Nancy A. Herrick, being duly sworn, deposes and says: When I was a girl, I had a head of heavy, long, dark brown hair which was the envy of my schoolmates, and which attracted the attention and remarks of strangers. As I grew older, my hair commenced to come out, just a little at first, but gradually more and more, and then began to turn gray. I was induced by the many good reports I had heard of Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy to try a bottle. My hair was quite thin and gray when I began using Sage and Sulphur, and you can imagine my satisfaction when I found that it was fast coming back to its natural condition, being thicker, darker and more glossy than it had been for a long time. I continued to use Sage and Sulphur, and my hair is now as heavy, dark and smooth as when I was a girl of sixteen. It is now four years since I commenced using Sage and Sulphur, and my hair is still in splendid condition.

Sworn to before me this 14th day of July, 1902.

THE EARLES AND MONEY MISSING

Indiana Game Commission Is
Short $7,250.

AN EX-DEPUTY AND WIFE GONE

With the Disclosure of a Shortage in the Accounts of the Indiana State Fish and Game Commissioner, It Is Found That Former Deputy E. E. Earle and Wife, Who Had Charge of Funds, Are Absent.

Indianapolis, Jan. 2.—A shortage of more than $7,250 on the books of Rev. Zack Sweeney of Columbus, former fish and game commissioner of Indiana, has been reported by examiners employed by the state board of accounts.

Rev. Sweeney, it is said, is ready to make good the shortage as soon as the board presents the matter to him. He has employed attorneys here, who are said to have asked the Indianapolis police to arrest Sweeney's former chief deputy, E. E. Earle, and his wife. The Earles, it is alleged, left here about a month ago, supposedly for Mexico. Earle obtained a divorce three months ago and married Miss Meehan two or three days afterward. Mrs. Earle is held responsible for the money reported missing because she, as license clerk for Marion county, collected the money.

Rev. Sweeney turned the office here over to Earle to run, and Earle is said to have had charge of all the funds. After he was succeeded in office by a Democrat Earle started to form the Farmers' Fish and Game Protective association for the purpose of bringing about the repeal of the present fish and game commission law. An officer in the organization said that Earle had all the money paid in by members. The amount was between $200 and $300. Practically all of the shortage is said to have come from failure to report hunters' licenses in this county.

That the alleged operations of Mrs. Earle were known to her husband is unquestioned. She is said to have reported a smaller number of licenses sold than actually were sold for a certain definite period. It is not considered probable that the fees could have been retained by her without Earle's knowledge.

George W. Miles, present state fish and game commissioner, is charged with $28, which he is said to have paid to Earle for expenses on an alleged forged voucher.

West Virginia Merchant and Bride-to-Be End Life Together.

Cumberland, Md., Jan. 2.—Miss M. Grace Elosser, aged twenty-eight years, of South Cumberland, and Charles Edward Twigg, a well-known merchant and peach orchard owner of Keyser, W. Va., killed themselves at the home of the young woman's parents on First street, South Cumberland.

The victims were to have been married the next day. No reason can be assigned for the act. Mr. Twigg came down from Keyser and called at the Elosser home. He and Miss Elosser went into the parlor, and they were heard laughing and talking. Later Mrs. Elosser, mother of the dead girl, went into the room and observed them seated on a settee together. Neither one spoke, and she quietly went out. She again went to the room a little later, spoke to her daughter, and receiving no response, gave the girl a friendly shove on the head. She was surprised to see Miss Elosser fall over, and upon examination found that both were dead. They had evidently swallowed quick-acting poison.

MINERS KILLED

Accident at a West Virginia Colliery Claims Eight Victims.

Williamson, W. Va., Jan. 2.—The torn and mangled bodies of eight men told the story of a terrible mistake made by men in charge of the head house at the incline of the Lick Fork operation of the Red Jacket Consolidated Coal company near Thacker. For some reason not yet explained four loaded mine cars were allowed to dash over the incline, carrying death and destruction in their wake.

The dead are: P. W. Tramel, mine foreman; Charles Skeens, mine foreman; six foreigners, most of them being known to the foremen by check numbers. Without warning the loaded cars, which were being let out of the mine, dashed over the incline and crashed into the carrying car, completely demolishing it and landing the tippie at the foot of the hill. Although the tippie men saw the terrible fate of the men who were on the car, they did not have time to save themselves and two of them were crushed to death and two so badly injured that little hope of their recovery is entertained.

To Give Them a Chance.

New York, Jan. 2.—Park Commissioner Stover is going to add a cow to the Central park menagerie as an educational exhibit for the children of the city. It was represented to him that there are thousands of children here who have never seen a cow and have a crude conception as to the source of the city's milk supply.

REPEAL OF SCHOOL STATUTE IS URGED

Governor Marshall Says Distribution Law Is Unfair.

Indianapolis, Jan. 2.—The general assembly will be asked by Gov. Marshall to repeal an act passed in 1905 and amended in 1907 to provide for the distribution of certain state funds among school corporations unable to maintain a six or seven months' term of school out of the proceeds of a local tuition tax. The governor also will recommend a specific appropriation of $60,000 to pay school teachers in southern Indiana who have claims against the local school corporations.

The original law creating a state common school tuition fund was approved Feb. 24, 1905. Its passage was brought about by Governor Hanly in anticipation of a shrinkage in local school revenues after the passage of the county local option law. One of the large sources of school revenue was the money collected in fees for retail liquor licenses. Governor Hanly knew that this source of revenue would be cut off and urged the passage of the act to create a fund for aiding such school corporations as would be affected seriously.

The county local option law was not passed until the special session of 1908, but the decrease in revenues following the passage of the act and the state's failure to provide sufficiently for the localities affected resulted in the failure of many corporations to meet their obligations to teachers.

The state common school tuition fund act was amended Nov. 11, 1907. The amendment provided that schools maintaining a six-months' term and a 25-cent levy, and schools maintaining a seven-months' term and a 40-cent levy should receive enough money from the state to complete the terms if the local funds were insufficient for that purpose. The state fund was created by reserving 5.2 per cent of the common school tuition tax collected each year.

Governor Marshall will urge the repeal of the law because he believes it unjust to tax the people in one section of the state for the support of the schools in another. He holds that all moneys derived from taxation should be distributed equally among all school corporations of the state.

A VILLAGE FEUD

Nova Scotia Neighbors at War Over
School Building.

Amherst, N. S., Jan. 2.—Four prominent residents of Port Greville and Fox River are under arrest as the result of a bitter feud between the two villages. The prisoners are Charles Allen, Charles Cochrane, Charles Morris and Benjamin Canning, all of whom are adherents of the Port Greville side of the controversy and are charged with burning a new high school building erected for the joint use of the two villages. The school was built at Port Greville in spite of a strong protest from Fox River people and open warfare has prevailed since.

The arrests have caused intense excitement in Port Greville and the county officials have ordered the parish constables to prevent a further clash.

Cochrane is a wealthy lumber man and ship builder and the others are also well known business men. Allen lives in Port Greville; the others in Fox River.

To Take Over Robin's Bank.

New York, Jan. 2.—A new bank formed to take care of the depositors of the Northern bank and other accounts will be opened to the public within a week or two, according to several directors of that institution. Joseph G. Robin, president of the Northern bank, who tried to kill himself last Friday, before being arraigned on an indictment of grand larceny, is doing well and doctors are sure that he will be able to go to court tomorrow to plead to the indictment.

Three Were Murdered.

Portsmouth, O., Jan. 2.—Charred bits of a third body were found in the ruins of the home of Oliver and Minor Platt, wealthy bachelor brothers at Rocky Fork, whose murderers are being sought throughout this section.

GIRL A GOOD CAMPAIGNER.

Auto, Big Hat and Cigars Aid in Missouri Victory.

In Jasper county, Mo., Miss Della Sharp was chosen clerk of the circuit court of the Twenty-fifth judicial district. Her success was largely due to her ability as a campaigner and her record in the office, where she served twelve years as a deputy.

Miss Sharp toured the county by automobile, and every morning she was to be seen emerging from her boarding house, clad in a black skirt, a dainty white shirt waist and as big a hat as was likely to keep within the bounds of approval. She distributed cards on which was printed, "Della Sharp needs your vote on Nov. 8 for circuit clerk." She carried with her a box of cigars. She talked to every man in the mining districts, in many cases going down shafts for a hearing.

She presented lead pencils to Democrats, with the injunction: "I brought this for you to scratch your own ticket on Nov. 8. I am sure that you would rather have an old maid in the office than an old bachelor."

Almost every fencepost, telegraph pole and bridge in the county bore placards, "Vote For the Girl," under which many wrote, "You bet I will."

MOVING PICTURES OF WILD-WEST HOLD UP

Gave These Young Fellows
Their Cue They Say.

Elizabeth, N. J., Jan. 2.—After attending a moving picture theater in this city, where they saw a wild western holdup, three young men, William Kilpatrick, Paul Swen and Adolph Swen, laid in wait at Bayway and the Long Branch railroad, a lonely spot on the outskirts, for William Kobbler of 448 Grier avenue. Jumping on Kobbler, they took his wallet containing two $20 bills, and his watch. They beat him up some and left him battered and bleeding in the road. They wore handkerchiefs as masks, but Kobbler recognized one and described him to the police, and all three were arrested in a saloon where they were spending their loot.

When arraigned before Judge Mahon the three blamed their evil-doing on the moving picture show, but they were sent to jail.

Pot Hunters.

Osceola, Ark., Jan. 2.—A shotgun duel occurred on Big Lake between pot hunters and officers patrolling the property of the Big Lake Hunting and Fishing club, following the indictment of forty-four members of the club, all charged with violating the laws prohibiting non-residents from hunting or fishing in Arkansas.

The officers chased the men in a boat and shots were exchanged when refusal was made to halt. It is said one of the hunters fell in the skiff, but they all escaped. The club has members living in Memphis, Nashville, St. Louis, Cincinnati, Louisville and other cities.

Escaped Without Injury.

Washington, Jan. 2.—One of the massive iron gates at the Pennsylvania avenue entrance to the driveway between the White House and state, war and navy building, was torn from its hinges and otherwise damaged in an auto accident early Sunday morning. The machine, which contained four men, was reduced almost to scrap iron. None of the four occupants of the car was hurt.

It Might Have Been Serious.

Rome, Jan. 2.—Queen Helena fell down the stairs leading from her bedroom to her children's nursery, banging her head, severely bruising her knees and injuring one of her forearms. Prof. Bastianelli examined her injuries and put the arm in splints. He assured her majesty that the fall was not likely to be serious, notwithstanding her interesting condition.

Too Many Congressmen.

(Lafayette Courier.)

The manifest destiny of the United States is such to most people that they are forced to the conclusion that the present ratio of representation in the house of representatives at Washington can not be long maintained if the house is to be kept down to a reasonable number. If the present ratio of representation is maintained the present number of our population will make the next house of representatives to be elected consist of 430 members. That number is too large for effective action. During the summer and through the campaign we heard a great deal about Cannon and Cannonism. Uncle Joe is a queer old relic of the past, to be sure, but if the fault of Cannonism were thoroughly sifted it would be found to lie for a great part in the very rigid rules made necessary by the unwieldy numbers of the house. Now the plan is to increase the number from 398 to 430. This apportionment will not entail a loss on any of the States, but unless the house is increased indefinitely the time must come when some State must face the disagreeable inevitable of having its representation reduced. The time has seemingly arrived when some action should be taken that will automatically settle the apportionment of representatives for each State. If the matter is left for each congress to act upon, following the taking of the census, it is pretty sure that the number of members will be allowed to go on piling up until only such a czar as Uncle Joe is reputed to be, could bring order out of the chaos.

Japanese statesmen continue to assure the United States that their country does not covet the Philippines. At the same time Japanese spies are at work on the Philippine islands preparing accurate maps of every foot of the land and erecting and maintaining secret wireless telegraph stations. It would seem that the authorities of the United States should call the attention of the Japanese government to these "unfriendly" acts in time of peace and ask for an explanation. It is to be supposed that the spies are not doing this work on their own account. They are certainly paid by the government.

There is really no use to jump on the poor road supervisor charging him with all the faults of an antiquated, inefficient and wasteful system of road maintenance. There ought to be somebody to support a new system and push it until it becomes a law in operation.

The importance of Mr. Taft's effort to enforce the anti-trust law, often by criminal proceedings, can not be over estimated. Enforcing existing law is infinitely better as a political issue than writing new laws on the paper of statute books.

Governor-elect Cruce of Oklahoma says the "jinswinger" coat is the proper thing for his inauguration. It is quite an advance in civilization when an Oklahoman is willing to wear any kind of a coat.

President Taft is doing all that can be done for Canadian reciprocity. If the Democrats got in, we should be offering Canada favors without waiting to see if we got the goods in return.

EDITORIALETTES.

If you keep that New Year's resolution during the day, you will be doing fine.

There are five States in which women vote. In the remaining ones they don't go to the polls.

"The fastest machine in the world is a gossip," says an exchange. We might add that gossip seldom ever breaks a pinion, when it's soaring high, and allows its rider to break its neck as it should.

Minnesota State Editorial Association has endorsed woman suffrage, which only goes to show that they do not believe it an "outrage" and that they know when to take the siding.

Indiana doctor reads a paper in which he says that night air is beneficial to those who breathe it, which would give rise to the warning that people who stop breathing, when the sun goes down, make a sad mistake.

Lewisville editor spends winter in Florida is the startling announcement. We really think that is something worth while getting excited over.

Suppose you are all rested up for the January sales.

The New Castle Courier "puts one over" something like this:

That they seem to be "tackling" the game of football from every "quarter" and it can't get "half back."

We believe the old rule of three days grace will hold good on New Year's resolutions, say for instance that tag on your paper—it should read "1Jan12."

Laying aside that reminder about the number of shopping days until Xmas the question is how much are you going to lay aside each week for that two weeks vacation next July or August?

Paul Nash, the American consul-general at Budapest, in his report to the department, reviewing financial conditions in Hungary, shows that every branch of industry in that country is financed by banking concerns; running from the manufacture of machinery to the export of nuts, and yet there has been only one bank failure of importance in forty years.

SOROSIS CLUB ENTERTAINS.

The members of the Sorosis club of Glenwood were handsomely entertained one afternoon last week by Mrs. W. E. Ochiltree at her home in West Seventh street, says the Connersville News. Mrs. Ochiltree founded this club three years ago and therefore feels a deep interest in its welfare. On this occasion she invited a group of friends in to meet the guests of honor and altogether the affair was one of the most delightful club events of the holiday season. The pretty rooms were hung with Christmas bells and holly. The president of the Sorosis, Mrs. W. S. Saxon, presided with her usual grace. A program of unusual interest was given. The responses were thoughts on the New Year. One absent member, Mrs. H. H. Elliott, who is visiting in Wichita, Kansas, sent greetings which the hostess read.

Mrs. Otto Golden presented an excellent paper on "America and Its Relation to Foreign Countries." Mrs. Ochiltree read one of her original stories, "Chronicles of Katherine," which is a clever production and was highly enjoyed.

Musical numbers were given by Mrs. A. H. McFarlan, Miss Martha Carter and Miss Ruth Lugar.

During the social hour following the program the guests were invited to the dining room where a delicious buffet luncheon was served. Mrs. L. C. Stockton, the hostess' mother, poured coffee at a prettily appointed table.

Mrs. A. H. McFarlan and the Misses Lugar and Carter also assisted Mrs. Ochiltree in extending the hospitalities of the afternoon.

Mrs. Albert Washam of Chicago was the only guest from a distance.

WATER CAUSES BIG FARM LOSS

State Board of Forestry Sends Out Warning to Guard Against Erosion Danger.

THEY HAVE REMEDY FOR IT

According to an announcement sent out by Chas. C. Deane, secretary of the State board of forestry many farms are partly ruined by erosion. The farmers in the southern part of the State have suffered the greatest damage. There are many fields and parts of fields in southern Indiana that have been abandoned because they are so badly eroded that at present they cannot be profitably farmed. Even grass will not grow on them because the top soil has all been washed off, and now briars and bushes are taking possession.

This article is to remind owners of such property that the only way to reclaim eroded land is to plant forest trees on it. Forest trees will stop the washing and soon grow into money. Remember that a gullied field on a farm depreciates the value of the remainder of the farm.

The kind of trees to plant would be Black Locust, Ash or Yellow Popular, and seedlings may be bought for $2 to $5 per thousand. The trees should be planted in the spring before the rush of spring work begins. If you have a gullied field, decide now to save it. If you are not certain as to what kind of trees to plant, or where to buy the seedlings to the best advantage, write the State Forester, Indianapolis, Indiana, for information and printed literature, who will be glad to assist you.

$3.56 IS LEFT IN THE TREASURY

Attempted to Buy That Which Would Make Children Enjoy Christmas Holiday Immensely.

The managers of the Daily Republican Santa Claus fund have just closed up the business of the fund and today make an accounting to the public of the money spent. The total amount of money spent was $151.60, all of which is accounted for in the tabulated expenditures below. It will be remembered that $155.16 was subscribed to the fund, which leaves a balance of $3.56. That amount will be turned over to Mrs. T. W. Betker, Mrs. A. L. Stewart and Mrs. Owen Kincaid to be used in their charity work.

When it was determined that the fund would have enough money to pay out, which was on the last day subscriptions were made, five dollars was given to the local charity workers, who have charge of the Mission Sunday school in South Pearl street to assist them in giving their two hundred pupils a Christmas treat. They have built up a wonderful Bible school which is held every Sunday afternoon.

The managers of the fund attempted to buy that which would best make a merry Christmas for the children of the city. The purpose of the fund is not charity, to supply needy children, but rather to make them enjoy Christmas by giving them something they would not enjoy, was not the fund in existence.

The expenditures were as follows:

CUMPTION ON THE FARM

It helps the wagon-maker to let the mud freeze to the wheels when you come in from a trip. You don't need to do it, though, by taking a little pains you can get most of the mud off while it is soft, and to save the wagon many years longer.

If you are thinking of moving, better look around first to see if the time, energy and money you would spend seeking a new location would not, if wisely spent about the old place, result in an increase of profit and comfort that would justify you in staying with the old home. Better do this than be sorry.

The horse blankets get torn sometimes. Some blistery day, take a stout needle and thread and see what a good job you can do mending the rents. It is a good thing for the men folks to do such little jobs as this, and not call on the women so much. They have their own work to do every day.

LAWS PROTECT DUMB ANIMALS.

Those who use and care for draft animals should remember that it is the duty of mankind to look after the dumb animals that are in his care; to protect them from the cold and storms and to see that horses are rough shod for the ice covered streets and roads. Be merciful to the dumb creatures. Don't forget them these cold days and nights. You will be better men and women for your kindness to them and besides there is the law below to compel the careless ones to think of their comfort.

The law on the matter of cruelty to animals is as follows: "Whoever overdrives, overloads, drives when overloaded, overworks, tortures, torments, deprives of necessary sustenance, cruelly beats, mutilates, or cruelly kills or causes or procures to be so overdriven, overloaded, driven when overloaded, overworked, tortured, tormented, deprived necessary sustenance, cruelly beaten, mutilated or cruelly killed any animal; and whoever, having charge or custody of any animal, either as owner or otherwise, inflicts needless cruelty upon the same, or mutilates the same or deprives of any natural means of defense or protection, or cruelly or unnecessarily fails to provide the same with proper food, drink, shelter or protection from the weather shall, upon conviction, be fined in any sum not more than two hundred dollars, to which may be added imprisonment in the county jail for any period not exceeding sixty days."

MRS. SPENCER PLEAS

Former Local Young Woman Has the Only Feminine Role in Playlet.

About 1,300 persons witnessed the passing of the old and the advent of the new year last night at the German House, says the Indianapolis Sunday Star. The seating capacity of the main auditorium was inadequate to accommodate the large company for the production of "The Burgomaster of Schmollis," a play written for the occasion by Theodore Stenfel, Jr., which the author termed "a crazy quilt in two patches." Mrs. Arnold Spencer, the only woman in the cast, appeared to advantage. Her solos were appreciated and she received several bouquets. She was applauded enthusiastically.

Recent experiments have proved conclusively that coal dust which has been ground to a state so fine that it will pass a 200-mesh sieve, will explode from contact with either a naked flame or with the arc of an electric current.

MAKE THIS RESOLUTION NOW

One of the most sensible New Year resolutions that any person can make is to save money systematically and to deposit it regularly in this strong bank. Say to yourself now, I will save in 1911. Start with this resolution and you will find that it is easier to keep the longer you keep it, because your account steadily growing through your regular deposits and the 3 per cent compound interest added gives you an ever increasing incentive and in the meantime your saving habit will become constantly stronger and will be of benefit to you as long as you live.

Make this resolution and come in to this Bank the first business day of the New Year with your first deposit even if it is no more than a dollar.

CHAPTER XIV.

The Red-Bound Book.

By the time they had reached the headland, the whole beach before them was enveloped in the sapphire shadow of the cliff, and the little cluster of huts toward which they were trudging was hardly distinguishable. It was not until they had halved the distance that the girl made out the little plume of rose-colored smoke that floated above Philip's newly constructed chimney.

But the next instant he laid a hand upon her arm and, with the other, pointed imperatively down the beach toward the hut. "Whether you saw him before, or not," he said, with a short grim laugh, "you can see him now."

Looking where he pointed, she saw a big, yellowish-white, ungainly thing come lumbering round the corner of the hut, upon all fours.

"A bear," he said, "and a good big one. You're not to be afraid. This is really unmerited good luck."

"Aren't they dangerous, these polar bears?" she asked.

In his answering laugh she heard the ring of rising excitement. "I won't deny," he said, "that if I had my way about it, I'd have you safely shut up inside the hut there before I tried conclusions with him. Give me the revolver, and take care to keep out of the line of fire. If you see a chance to slip inside the hut, do it. And don't assume that he's dead until I tell you so. These polar bears have no nerves at all. You can't shock them. They don't stop until you have put their locomotor facilities completely out of business."

She was smiling when she handed him the revolver. "Here's luck," she said. "Don't be afraid for me."

Cayley smiled, too. "Keep behind me, but not so far that you're in any danger of getting cut off in case I have to dance around him a little. There he's winded us already."

Cayley turned for a last look at her. He had slipped his bundled wings from his back and laid them on the ice. He was still smiling, but somewhat ironically. "I'm half afraid he'll run away," he said, "and half afraid he won't."

AN OLD-TIME PRESCRIPTION

in a modern product. From time immemorial sage and sulphur have been used for the hair and scalp. Almost every one knows of the value of such a combination for darkening the hair and making it grow. In olden times the only way to get a hair tonic of this sort was to brew it in the home fireplace, a method which was troublesome and not always satisfactory. Nowadays almost every up-to-date druggist can supply his patrons with a ready to use product, skillfully compounded in perfectly equipped laboratories. Such a preparation is Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur, which is sold by all leading druggists for 50c. and $1.00 a bottle, or which is sent direct by the Wyeth Chemical Company, 74 Cortlandt St., New York City, upon receipt of price.

very deep and steadily. She did not try to speak.

Cayley understood well enough what it meant. This place that they had come back to for the night was home now, probably the last home she would ever have in the world, if one were to balance the chances fairly. Its warmth and light and comparative comfort did more to enforce a realization of their tragic plight than anything before had done. The thing she was fighting with was a sudden wave of plain terror.

Cayley went out into the little vestibule and closed and bolted the outer door. He contrived to waste a minute or two over the trifling task, in order to give her that moment by herself.

When he came back, closing the inner door behind him as he did so, he found that she had taken off her cap and the heavy fur coat which had encumbered her shoulders all day, and hung them upon a convenient wooden peg in the wall. She was standing near the fireplace now, warming her cold fingers at the blaze.

Cayley started a little at sight of her, for now she was transformed, too. Standing there, silhouetted against the blaze, in her gray cardigan jacket and moleskins, she looked like a young boy. He had discovered before this that there was not a grain of false modesty about her; nevertheless, it pleased him when, with a certain charming frank simplicity, she called his attention to her costume.

"It's a lucky thing," she observed, "that I dressed for a scramble over the ice before coming ashore with Uncle Jerry and Mr. Scales. And lucky, too, that I didn't change back when we returned to the Aurora. I left it the second time with no other idea than of pulling about for awhile in the dinghy. I'd have done that just the same if I had dressed for dinner that night, as I usually did."

"Yes," he said. "A skirt would have been a pretty serious matter to people in our situation."

"Show me the rest of our house," she commanded presently. "This is the only room I've seen."

The subdivision of the hut was accomplished by an L-shaped partition seven feet or so from the outer wall, around two sides of it. It yielded two tiny, cubical bedrooms (that was the purpose which the wooden bunk in each of them indicated); and a third room of the same width (about seven feet), but running the entire length of the side of the hut nearest the cliff. This room had evidently served for stores and for a kitchen, since part of the reconstructed fireplace projected into it. It was in this last room where the greater part of what the searchers from the Aurora had dismissed as "rubbish" was accumulated.

Cayley did as the girl commanded, and showed her every nook and cupboard which the four walls of the hut contained. When they returned to the living room where the fire was, she dropped down on one of the bunks with a little sigh of fatigue.

"You've been disobeying orders," he said, looking her over with a serious sort of smile. "You've let yourself get too tired. You'll have to make up for it by being exceptionally obedient now."

As he spoke, he shook out the sleeping-bag on the bunk, behind where she was sitting.

"You're to lie down on that," he said, "until I can get supper ready; and directly after supper you're to take this bag into whichever of those bedrooms you would like for yours, and really undress and go to bed."

She assented to that after a little demur. That he had rightly guessed the degree of her fatigue was attested by the fact that when he re-entered the hut after dressing the fowl that was to provide their evening meal, he found her cuddled up upon the great sheepskin, fast asleep.

It was not until his rudimentary culinary operations were about completed that, glancing over to where she lay, he found her regarding him with a sleepy smile.

"I thought of something just as I was dropping off to sleep," she said, "a really beautiful idea. I tried to call out and tell you, but I was too sleepy. I hope I haven't lost it. It was something about—oh, I know. Don't you suppose we might find a clue to where the stores are hidden in father's journal or in the maps?"

He laid down the drumstick he had been about to bite into, and gazed at her, partly in astonishment, partly in a sort of amused dismay that the idea had not occurred to him before. "That suggestion," he said, "is worth the whole of my day's work. Of course that's the way to begin our search—the only way, and tomorrow morning—"

"Tomorrow morning! I thought the worst thing you could possibly say would be after supper. I wanted to let the duck go and begin the search now." She smiled at him. "You'll compromise, won't you, on directly after supper?"

Catarrh Cured for 10c

If you are troubled with Catarrh, Cold in the head. Headache etc., you can be relieved and probably cured for a dime. There is no remedy that has given the satisfaction as Dr. Price's Plex. It is a simple, harmless preparation; an antiseptic that can be taken internally; unlike other preparations on the market. Plex 10c. surely cures Catarrh, Hay Fever, cold in the head, Headache. At all drug stores.

Hargrove and Mullin, Druggists.

He assented with a laugh. "If you can keep awake, but the first time I catch you nodding—"

"All right," she said, "only let's hurry with the duck." Then, a little later, "It can't be possible, can it, that we're going to eat the whole of it at one meal? It's beginning to look that way."

There was one compensation to the rudeness of their fare and the exigency of their equipment. Clearing up after dinner was an operation of extreme simplicity.

When it was completed, Philip heaped more wood on the fire, and in the glow of the crackling flames they spread out the maps and began their search.

PINCHOTS FILE ALASKAN BRIEF

Gifford and His Brother Allege Plan to Defraud.

THOSE GUNNINGHAM CLAIMS

In a 10,000 Word Brief Filed With the President, Deposed Forester and His Brother Amos Point Out Their Views Regarding the Alleged Attempt to Monopolize Valuable Coal Lands in Alaska.

Washington, Jan. 2.—The brief that Gifford Pinchot and his brother Amos have presented to President Taft in the Cunningham land cases has been made public. The brief is 10,000 words in length and reviews the history of what Mr. Pinchot declares is a "fraudulent plan to acquire for a single association public coal lands in Alaska greatly in excess of the amount allowed by law." According to the brief the area involved is about 5,280 acres and the coal is estimated to be worth at least $25,000,000.

"That the Cunningham claimants," says the brief, "if they secure patents, will be in a position to establish, in conjunction with J. P. Morgan & Co. and the Guggenheim Exploration company, a virtual monopoly of coal production in Alaska, is clear from a consideration of actual conditions as they exist in Alaska."

Balling's Recommendation.

The Pinchot brothers asked permission several weeks ago to present a brief on the Cunningham case before the president should approve the expected recommendations of Secretary of the Interior Ballinger that the Cunningham claims be validated. Mr. Ballinger has not, however, approved the Cunningham claims, but has turned the case over to President Taft with the recommendation that it be put up to the court of appeals of the District of Columbia for approval or disapproval.

The Pinchot brief was filed nevertheless for the president's information. Much of the information presented in the brief is old. The Pinchot brothers charge that the claimants made an unlawful agreement among themselves to defeat the provisions of the United States statute, limiting the holdings of any one claimant to 160 acres or any association to 640 acres.

According to the Pinchots, each was to swear that he had made entry for his own sole use, when as a matter of fact all understood that after title was secured their interests should be consolidated. The claimants, the brief says, design to secure a monopoly of the coal of Alaska.

FIRED VILLAGE

How Kentucky Cracksmen Sought to Cover Their Tracks.

Lexington, Ky., Jan. 2.—Burglars robbed and demolished with nitroglycerin the general merchandise store of Murphy & Acton at Kings Mountain, Ky., and nearly caused the destruction of the village by fire. When the explosion occurred burning debris from the store was hurled about, setting fire to several buildings and destroying the residences of M. G. Murphy and M. B. Smith. The other fires were extinguished after a sharp fight.

The burglars entered the store by a rear window and blew open the safe. When residents, awakened by the noise, hurried toward the store, the men set fire to the building and then blew it up. In the confusion the burglars escaped, leaving their instruments behind. The damage totals about $10,000.

Veteran College Head Resigns.

Lexington, Ky., Jan. 2.—James K. Paterson, LL.D., Ph. D., and fellow of the Royal Geographical Society of Great Britain, has formally ended his tenure of office as president of the state university of Kentucky. He had held the place forty years and in point of service was the oldest college president in America. Dr. Paterson's successor will be Henry S. Parker, until Saturday chief justice of the Kentucky court of appeals.

Bodies Found in Ruins.

Atlantic City, Jan. 2.—After a fire in the boathouse bungalow at Ventnor, the firemen discovered the charred bodies of John McAleese and a young woman believed to be Kate Williams or Donovan, who is reported to have come here with McAleese a month ago and taken up residence in the boathouse which McAleese rented.

JOHN A. DIX

Who Today Became Chief Executive of New York.

DIX'S INAUGURATION DRAWS GREAT CROWD

Albany Thronged Today By Visiting Democrats.

Albany, N. Y., Jan. 2.—The inauguration of Governor Dix occurred at noon today. The ceremony took place in the assembly chamber, which will comfortably accommodate about 1,000, and yet about 15,000 invitations had been issued. The oath of office was administered to Governor Dix by Secretary of State Edward Lazansky. Governor White made a short address and Governor Dix then delivered his inaugural. There was an old-fashioned reception at the executive mansion during the afternoon and Democrats from every cross-roads town and hamlet in the state attended.

COLD WAVE COMING

Sudden Fall of Temperature in the Prairie States.

Omaha, Jan. 2.—The entire west is in the grip of the hardest storm of the winter and a raging blizzard is sweeping over the prairie states. Throughout Nebraska, Wyoming, South Dakota and Montana the thermometer ranges far below zero. There is also a heavy fall of snow. In Omaha the storm came up suddenly at daylight Sunday morning and the temperature dropped to 10 degrees below zero, whereas at dark Saturday night the thermometer stood at 40 above. In the mountains of Wyoming and Montana the cold is intense, reaching as low as 20 degrees below zero at some points. Accompanying the cold is much snow.

In the Black Hills of South Dakota everything is snowbound and business is at a standstill. In the newly settled portions of the states there will be much suffering among homesteaders. Railroad traffic is seriously interfered with in all prairie states, mostly by cold, the locomotives being unable to keep up steam in the face of the severe cold.

Ohio mines a greater proportion of its coal by machinery than any other state.

TWO VICTIMS OF THE AIR LANES

Hoxsey's Death Follows That of Moisant.

THOUSANDS WITNESS TRAGEDY

A Few Hours After He Had Heard of Moisant's Shocking Death at New Orleans Arch Hoxsey Met a Similar Fate at Los Angeles, Bringing the List of Victims of the New Sport Up to Forty-One.

Los Angeles, Cal., Jan. 2.—The aviators at Dominguez Field went through their maneuvers in the air with listlessness and dampened enthusiasm. On every aviator's face could be seen the signs of grief for their favorite associate, Arch Hoxsey, who was hurled from his biplane to instant death Saturday afternoon. John Moisant's death at New Orleans a few hours before added to the gloom, for he also was looked on as a Californian, having come to Alameda county when but a boy and living in the city of Alameda until twenty-one years old.

Hoxsey's body, by order of Mrs. M. C. Hoxsey, his mother, was taken to Pasadena, where the funeral will take place Tuesday afternoon. By order of the aviation committee the aviators did nothing beyond straightaway flying and circling Sunday. None of the dips or treacherous spirals was attempted.

Hoxsey fell 563 feet in his aeroplane. He was taken out of the wreckage so badly crushed that the field surgeons declared death had been almost instantaneous. Hoxsey's machine seemed to have been caught in a vortex of contrary currents in a treacherous atmosphere and was whirled over and over as he came tumbling down out of the air.

From the appearance of his body life was crushed out by the weight of the motor, which was wrenched from its position in the machine by the force of the impact. Thousands of horror-stricken people in the grandstand and surrounding the field witnessed the tragedy. The aviator was coming down out of the clouds by a series of dips and spiral glides, after an altitude flight. He had ascended carrying a barograph for the purpose of breaking his own world's altitude record of 11,474 feet, which he made here last Monday. His machine had reached a point 563 feet from the ground, and Hoxsey was gliding and dipping swiftly toward the ground, when the erratic air currents struck him, lifted the biplane a few feet and seemed to turn it entirely over.

It fluttered for a moment like a wounded bird, then dropped straight down like a plummet, reeling over and over as it sped toward the earth. Hoxsey's body lay under the shattered motor, crumpled and broken. The machine in which he had made his world's record flight was a mass of wire, of sticks, tangled all about him. Many women among the spectators broke down and wept.

A few minutes before Hoxsey's fatal flight a boy passing his hangar cried news of the death of Moisant in New Orleans. Hoxsey's mechanic tried to chase him away, but Hoxsey demanded a paper and got it. "There's another good man gone," he said.

MOISANT'S FALL

Daring Aviator's Neck Broken While Preparing For Big Flight.

New Orleans, Jan. 2.—John B. Moisant, the daring American aviator, the first to fly over the city of Paris with a passenger; the first to make a trip with a passenger from Paris to London, and winner of the Statue of Liberty $10,000 prize, met his death while in a preliminary flight, prior to an attempt to win the Michelin cup and a $4,000 prize for the longest-sustained flight in 1910.

Elaborate preparations had been made for the test of endurance, and the daredevil aviator entered into it with all the confidence of his bold nature. He circled the field twice, and, coming around on his third lap, prepared to descend from a height of 200 feet. He dipped at a sharp angle, and when about twenty-five feet from the ground his machine suddenly became vertical and he was pitched forward. He shot through the air and landed on the soft earth, just thirty-six feet from his machine. His neck was broken by the fall. There was not a scar or bruise upon him.

Emperor Francis Joseph is confined to his bed with a cold and his physicians insist that the greatest precautions be observed.

HEAVY MOURNING AVIATION'S

PRIZE WINNERS 69

THEY have pulled the aviator balance sheet for the season just ended. One side is bordered with gold, the other piped with black.

From the wide stretched wings of motor pushed, man built birds thirty id fliers have hung the gay emblem of achievement 10,000 feet up in cloudland. Others, reaching out for the stars, have ridden aloft to the music of waving kerchiefs and to a fate which has for its finality the funeral wreath on the sodded mound. For every prize there's a price in the business. Twenty-two have paid the price.

Chavez, the Peruvian, lies in the aviators' graveyard, his bones like so many broken sticks, his brave heart torn from its place. He had touched the high spots in his rides overhead and picked up a prize here and there until his purse had been fattened to nearly $50,000.

Alps' Conquest Fatal.

Then he tried successfully for something even more spectacular. He mapped out a path for himself such as the crow might take over the Alps and from his perch looked down upon the snow capped apexes and the narrow defiles through which Napoleon pushed his advancing army after the fleeing forces of Archduke Charles of Austria.

And then, with this accomplishment writ in the records of what a mere unfeathered biped may do in striving to be a bird, he was about to alight on the plains of Lombardy, and he paid the price. When the cravediggers in drab smocks had pulled the straps from under the lowered coffin peasant children bestrewn its lid with frost flowers gathered from the mountain peaks over which Chavez had flown.

Chavez was one of the twenty-two. Captain Macievich was another. He wore the czar's colors on his breast. He was not of the foot or horse guards, but of the battalion of the air. He had served his time in the basket swinging by many cords from the gas filled dirigible and had advanced to the flying line. He, too, paid the price. It was field day when he paid it. Russia's greatest generals, standing on a hillock, trained their fieldglasses on him as his frail machine pushed upward. As they measure bird men in the sky, he had reached 3,930 feet. He swung wide, circled and started back. At 1,640 feet something happened. The bird folded its wings. Then it dropped. They found the soldier in a wire bound bundle a hundred times dead.

Of marching troops, dirges and volleys he got the honors of an admiral on funeral day; also they paid him the compliment, new until that occasion, of ordering an airship to be thrice circled over the grave as the body was lowered therein—proper funeral for a member of the battalion of the air.

Johnstone Too Daring.

Johnstone was the last on the American list—Johnstone of Kansas City and afraid of nothing. He knew the skies so well that they called him a guide. A million pairs of eyes at one time or another had seen him go laughing into the skies. He had won many prizes. And on two occasions

BORDER ON BALANCE SHEET

DEAD 22

Johnstone had expressed the belief that he would be the first to do real fancy work in the sky and become, in a word, the aviating gymnast and loop an imaginary loop.

Johnstone paid the price. The story of how he came down out of 800 feet with a tear and a thud hasn't begun to fade on the pages of the daily newspaper. His season ended in the grave. His name on the balance sheet is opposite the figures $19,108.

Death Problem Arises.

Now that men are dropping from new and hitherto unapproached heights—heights far beyond the aforesaid dizzy line—wondering minds are asking if it be possible for the quick to know that he soon is to be dead. It has a passing interest, but its importance is magnified.

Leon Morane, who rode in from the clouds on a buckled aeroplane and astonished himself as well as others by living to refer to it, recalled that he had felt faint. He probably did. But he didn't romp through the daisy fields of his boyhood, hear the soft drone of voices in the little hillside schoolhouse or sit with arm encircling his sweetheart amid the apple blossoms. The machine knotted itself, catapulted and scrunched—all in a jiffy.

When Ehrmann rose over Barcelona he sailed into a thunderstorm. Lightning played in his rigging and outlined the wires in flame. The canvas shriveled. Naturally he came back to the starting point by the direct route. He lived. The chapter which those who gathered round expected to hear was one word long—"Horrible!"

AMUSEMENTS

The Palace offers a Lubin film for tonight entitled "On the Mexican Border." It is a Mexican story full of thrilling scenes. A new illustrated song will be sung.

The Vaudeville will have as a special feature Wagoner's orchestra for tonight. Besides the orchestra there will be two reels of pictures. The first is a Bison film, "The Prayer of a Miner Child." The second picture is a Nestor film, "The Golden Hoard." A new illustrated song will be sung.

The Star Grand will present another American film tonight entitled "Vera, the Gypsy Girl." Gypsies are naturally romantic, passionate and impulsive. This story, while depicting the heart-rending trials and tribulations of a beautiful gypsy girl likewise effectually sets forth the gypsy characteristics, as aforementioned, in a manner that is nothing if not gripping. Earl Robertson will sing "If This Rose Told You All it Knows."

Margaret Illington will make her first appearance in Indianapolis since returning to the stage when she will be seen Thursday, Friday and Saturday at the Murat in "The Encounter," by Pierre Berton, author of "Zaza." The drama was first produced in Paris at the Comedie Francaise. It has to do with Adrian Servat, a French advocate, who is married to a young woman with whom he is not happy. Mme. Camille deLancey, approaching the advocate to consult him regarding her legal affairs, discovers that Servat is the husband of her childhood friend and, renewing old acquaintance, she becomes for the time, a member of his household. Servat falls in love with her, but Camille remains loyal to her friend, even to the extent of shielding her from the consequences of what is much more than a mere indiscretion. In order to do this, Camille employs all her wiles in an effort to prevent Servat from learning the truth and, in her turn, is suspected of returning Servat's affection. In spite of the final act, the erring wife and Camille meet face to face in a thrilling scene from which the play gains its title. Miss Illington's supporting company includes Edward B. Mawson, Charles Swickard, David Edwin, Daniel Lyons, Cyril Courtney and Louise Arnold.

LOCAL MAN TALKS TO CORN GROWERS

T. A. Coleman Makes Plea For Farmers to Organize in Address at Shelbyville Session.

FAVOR UNION OF ASSOCIATIONS

Complimentary to the address of T. A. Coleman at the second annual meeting of the Shelby County Corn Growers' Association in Greenfield Saturday the Shelbyville Democrat says:

The address of T. A. Coleman, who is one of the most prominent and successful farmers in Rush county, was given close attention. Mr. Coleman is one of the best informed men in the State on matters of agriculture and is a very interesting speaker. He made a plea for the farmers to organize, if they specialize in corn to join a growers' organization, or if their specialty is in stock raising to join stock organizations. The importance of this getting-together is immense, according to Mr. Coleman. In the first place it furnishes an inspiration to progress, and secondly organizations by their influence can either advance legislation in their favor or oppose that which is against them and their interests. An example of this is the work accomplished by the State Corn Growers' Association which influenced the legislature several years ago to appropriate $25,000 per year for agricultural interests.

Mr. Coleman, who formerly was president of the State Corn Growers' Association, said that since the organization of that association fifteen years ago, the average yield of corn in this State has been increased fifteen bushels, or an average of one bushel per year in this State the importance of this is seen. Mr. Coleman is also backing a movement to join all of the five associations in the State, such as corn growers, sheep, cattle and others in one organization.

That a Connecticut man should be arrested for grinding up old cigar boxes and selling the product for pepper should not provoke surprises on the part of those who remember the stories told about the basswood hams and wooden nutmegs of olden days. Connecticut is famous as "the land of steady habits."

Mr. and Mrs. John H. Gray and daughter, Mary, entertained Mrs. Gray's father, mother, brothers and sisters and their families at their country home near Ben Davis Creek church Sunday, with an elaborate turkey dinner. It was probably the happiest day in the history of the family, due partly to the fact that it was the first time since Mr. and Mrs. Jos. M. Bell and family of six children, three girls and three boys, have all been together since they were married and left their parents' home; also to the hospitality of Mr. and Mrs. Gray. Their pretty home was tastefully decorated for the occasion and the dinner was as usual, one of the important features. Mrs. Gray is the oldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bell. Their other children are Mrs. Will McMillin, Mrs. George O. Austin, Will, Ed and Lowell Bell, all living in this county, except Lowell, the youngest son, who lives in Indianapolis. Mr. and Mrs. Bell are 69 and 70 years old respectively, and there has never been a death in the family of six children and fourteen grandchildren. It was a happy day for all. Mr. and Mrs. Bell were married 49 years ago last August 14, and nothing preventing will celebrate their golden wedding anniversary next August. Those present were: Mr. and Mrs. John H. Gray, daughter, Mary; Mr. and Mrs. Eddie Meyer and son Robert; Mr. and Mrs. Will McMillin, daughter Ruby, Mr. and Mrs. Walter E. Smith, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Logan; Mr. and Mrs. George Austen, son Gilbert and daughter, Beatrice; Mr. and Mrs. Will Bell, sons, Edward and Vern, and daughter, Maude; Mr. and Mrs. Ed Bell, son Cassel; Mr. and Mrs. Lowell Bell, daughter, Gady and son Otho; Omer Bell and Ryce Bishop.

A. P. Walker, Importer of Fancy Jersey Cattle, Will Cross Pond in Few Weeks, For Shipment.

JERSEY CATTLE CLUB TO MEET

Alpheus P. Walker, an importer of Jersey cattle and proprietor of the Jersey Isle stock farm, near Rushville, visited Indianapolis Saturday and greeted friends at the Claypool, says the Indianapolis Star. Mr. Walker not long ago sold a fine Jersey bull, Derry's Golden Jolly, to W. K. Schoepf, proprietor of the Sheffield farms at Glendale, Ohio, for $11,000 and later sold Mr. Schoepf another bull, The Plymouth Lad, for $9,000. Mr. Schoepf is president of the Cincinnati Traction company and is a personal friend of Hugh J. McGowan. Through him Mr. McGowan has become interested in Jersey cattle and recently purchased several head of Jerseys for his farm, two and one-half miles north of Indianapolis.

Mr. Walker will depart some time in the near future for the Jersey Isle to buy some high-priced cattle. He brought word that the Indiana Jersey Cattle club will meet at the Denison Hotel January 11. Lieutenant Governor Frank J. Hall will address the meeting and a representative of the American Jersey Cattle club will speak. January 11 and 12 the State Dairy Association will meet at Purdue University.
